

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A cutting board for chopping food articles and household items includes a baseboard having a cutting surface for cutting articles thereon. The cutting board further includes a smooth curved sloping surface region at one edge. A surface of the smooth curved sloping surface region has a texture which is different from a texture of the cutting surface. The smooth curved 5 sloping surface region enhances the transfer of chopped articles from the cutting surface to another location.